Bennett

DEDICATION

We, the members of the Class of 1958, do dedicate our yearbook to Mr. Campbell and Miss Bennett. Introducing us to the turmoil and problems of junior high school, Mr Campbell ably supervised our home-room and instructed us in geography. Miss Bennett prodded us all through junior high math, and even succeeded in getting us through the terrors of algebra and geometry. Now, as time marches on, she is advisor to us in our last year of high school. On these grounds we gratefully acknowledge the contributions of these two teachers with this, our yearbook.

administration

The beginning point in any journey through time is the primitive era. The staff of this annual chose the administration to be the representatives of this era. The explanation for why this was done is comparatively simple. Ever since time began man has been trying to educate himself and others about him. Many different types of methods have been used, but one of the most effective is the one depicted in the cartoon.

music

Music in the time of Nero was a different thing from the music of today. It must be credited to Nero and the Romans, although that music had developed enormously from the time of the caveman. Compared to the music of today, however, it was still very primitive. There was no "definite rhythm, and not much form." Thinking it over, though, has there been so much change?

This year the Concert Choir has been engaged in more activities than ever. Directed by Mrs. Charles Florence, the Choir presented a Christmas program entitled, "O Come Let Us Adore Him," appeared at the Christmas assembly, and caroled down town. In January the Choir gave an assembly for the Amherst High School in exchange for their appearance here in December. In March all the choirs

Under the direction of Donald Jones, the band has been seen numerous times this past year. In the fall they presented half-time antics during the football games. A Mid-winter Concert highlighted the winter activities. A Lakeland Conference Band Festival, held at Vermilion, and a Spring Concert rounded out the major appearances for the year. The band was also seen on various occasions adding music

The Junior Band is composed of seventh and eighth graders and advanced sixth graders. The main purpose of this band is to prepare them for the high school band when they become freshmen. The year's major activities included a half-time performance at the Homecoming game, a concert, which was given on March 11, and marching in the Memorial Day parade.

sports

Charge! And another brave challenger bites the dust. You are now entering the most glamorous of all eras, the era of chivalry, represented here by sports. The principle behind sports has not changed much down through the years. It has always been the challenger versus the champion, the winner and the loser. The thing that has witnessed a great evolution, however, is the sense of value connected with a battle. No longer does a brave knave lose his head over the sniffs of a damsel. Well, very rarely anyway.

Varsity

The football team of W.H.S. this year finished in third place in the Lakeland Conference, losing only to Amherst and Vermilion.

Two of the senior players, Jim Vickers and Mike Harris were honored for their efforts by being placed on the All Conference Squad for the second year. Other active players were: Jim Herrick, Norman Richards, Tom Jones, Lynn Coffin, Carl Farago, John Wilkinson, Bob Norton, and John Brown.

These boys, the remainder of the squad, the entire athletic department and the backing of the student body have all contributed generously to Wellington's receiving of the Sportmanship's Trophy from Amherst.

VARSITY BASKETBALL

Although winding up in third place in the Lakeland Conference this year, the Wellington Varsity Squad earned the reputation of being the team most likely to upset predictions. Having been defeated earlier in the season by Amherst (Lakeland Conference Champions) and Midview (Lorain County Champions), the Wellington Varsity gave each a return game that neither will forget. Midview has remained unbeaten all year until Wellington beat them 65-62 in their last game. The only defeat Amherst received came at the hands of the Dukes. Going into the Class AA Tournament the squad had a 11-5 record.

The scores for the year were as follows:

activities

"Speak for yourself, John." These were the immortal words of Priscilla Lane to John Alden, spoken during the Pilgrim era. These words represented the whole of all Pilgrims. Straight forward, honest, and courageous, these people worked together for success in their common activities. This heritage of working together has proved to be the backbone of our own successful activities of today.

student council

Forfeiting their noon hour on Wednesday of each week, this year's Student Council worked to successfully complete the year's plans. They sold season tickets for both the football and basketball games, planned the annual events of homecoming, fathers' night, and recognition day, and scheduled assemblies. Their biggest undertaking was publishing a High School Handbook.

The officers consisted of Mike Harris, President; Ardith Jewett, Vice-President; Barbara Drake, Secretary; Dennis Searles, Treasurer; Gary Perkins, Social Chairman; and Josephine Farago, Program Chairman.

Tin pan alley, gangland, the Charleston, jazz singers. These were the wild and glorious twenties. Like the classes of W.H.S., almost anything went — until you are seniors of course. Then you quiet down and prefer tamer amusement, such as throwing girls' purses across the room, putting tacks on the teachers' chairs, and batting the globe around in civics class.

SENIORS

Time marches on! You have now come to the last plateau in the journey through time—the man of the future. You have witnessed man in his earliest element. Man in his musical ability, man in sportsmanship, and now you are seeing the man of the future. We, of the annual staff, sincerely hope you have enjoyed our efforts and will remember the class of '58.

class prophecy

With setting of sail we sail for the stars of Saturn. Next 101X? As we disembark, our hostess Marsha Cole, pilot Rodney Sell, and solar navigator Janet Holman tell us that the first stop is the interplanetary customs service which is headed by Tom Jones. Because of a short wait for our next rocket, we decide to look around. We spy Kathleen Prentiss controlling the latest electronic device for dispensing vitaminized food. This device named "Vrenovac" was pioneered and developed by engineers Steve Westbrook, Bill Brumfield, and Jim Herrick. Prominently displayed on the stereo-visual glass, invented by Bill Lampen, are ads drawn by Bev Bassett, Inc., of the new meteor-proof homes designed by Frank Anderson and John Kert, manufactured by Farago, Wurtz, and Wheatley, Inc. They are now available to the public through solar salesmen J. Vickers, B. Jones, and B. Norton. In a glass enclosure we find Phyllis Blackburn, Bernice King, Agnes Lasky, Lois Nance and Pat Storrow who are running the Earth Satellite Communications Lines. Picking up a morning paper we first notice an article written by Christine LeBeau, a well-known reporter, about the arrival of a group of American entertainers on Saturn who are beginning a tour of the Universe. Among the group we notice such famous names as: Glenda Perkins, actress; Tony Sprenger, leader of his own jazz band; Shirley Hawkins, concert vocalist; Joyce Benschoter, Charlene Seeley, and Carol Riggs, dance team; Phil Jewett and Lynn Coffin, comedy team. Also we see an article concerning the approaching attempt of Todd Mochle, Arthur Rucker, and John Wilkinson to reach Alpha Centauris. Another item of interest is the arrival of W.S.F. (Women's Space Force) on Pluto. Officers of this military service are Janet Sipes, Betty Youngless, Barbara Wright, Janet Swartz, and Alice Trig.

Closely associated with this group are the Spaceketeers, who patrol the rocket lanes. Officers in this service are John Beal, Floyd Herold, Jack Stampfli, Leo Raab, and Orville Nance. On the opposite page we see an ad for a fertilizer that is guaranteed to grow corn even in the craters of Jupiter. This product was developed by agricultural scientists J. Brown, J. Lowell, K. Kertz, and W. Stroman. Well known fashion designers, Iris Clawson and Barbara Drake have announced that their space suits with the new 1976 look will be sold exclusively through Roger Hyde, clothier. The University of Venus has announced that two of their professors R. Klann and M. Harris have just completed research on astronomical devices to control comets.

Having turned to the funny page of the paper, we notice a comic strip entitled "The Littlest Sputnik" by Beth Thornton. As we lay the paper down we see Dr. Gossman and her special assistant Molly Wight, who have just entered the terminal. Marilyn is universally known for her discovery of LKP4 which is guaranteed to prevent blood boiling on Mercury. Marilyn tells us that this product may be obtained from the pharmaceutical company of Ellis, Inc. Molly tells us to be sure to tune in our spacevisions tonight for Sheila Wagner and her Views on the Views. This evening Sheila will be interviewing Sue Bauer, outstanding author. Following her show will be a forum of home economists Annabelle Lee, Juanita Knapp, Karen Kepler, and Pat Hazlett. We also learn that Kay Laughlin, N. Faight, and Edith Mull are teaching the use of radio active calculators at a business school on Neptune. Carole Andrews, Nancy George, and Maxine Pitts are attending a convention for beauticians on Earth.

Our rocket is now preparing to leave, taking us to Mars where we will assume our duties as United States Ambassadors.

CLASS WILL

We, the Class of 1958, being of sound mind and body, do declare this to be our last will and testament.

We do bequeath:

To the Juniors, our hallowed seats in assembly.

To the Sophomores, our winning ways with the faculty.

To the Freshmen, our loyalty to W.H.S.

Individual Bequests

I, Frank Anderson, leave my ability to get A's in mechanical drawing to Bob Greenbank.

I, Carole Andrews, leave my height to Sally Lampen and my devilish ways to anyone who likes to have a good time.

I, Bev Bassett, leave my position as Art Editor of the "Hi-Times" to Theo Brouse so she can get out of physical education.

I, Sue Bauer, leave my ability to pass notes in civics class without getting caught to Anna Lee Williams.

I, John Beal, leave this school.

I, Joyce Benschoter, leave Norman Richards to Lois Finkel, who may, by next year, be more acquainted.

I, Phyllis Blackburn, leave the first seat in class to anyone lucky enough to have their last name start with B.

I, John Brown, leave my fun in sports to anyone deserving it, and my place in the pool room to Clair Storrow.

I, Bill Brumfield, leave a collection of glorious memories and a bottle of tranquilizer pills to Mr. Gove.

I, Iris Clawson, leave my love of history to Iva Walker.

I, Lynn Coffin, leave my ability to get into trouble to anyone who wants it, because it is the only way I'll ever get rid of it.

I, Marsha Cole, leave to Deanna Good my ability to sometimes forget, or be late to, physical education class.

I, Barbara Drake, leave my homecoming crown to any junior girl who is fortunate enough to win it.

I, Jim Ellis, leave my ability to chew gum all day without getting a detention to anyone who thinks he can do it.

I, Leonard Ewell, leave my position as President of F.F.A. to any interested agriculture student.

I, Nancy Faight, leave my ability to get along with cow farmers to anyone who likes cows.

I, Carl Farago, leave my position in all sports to my brother Joe.

I, Janice Fisher, gladly leave my place in marching band to anyone who wants it.

I, Jean Foster, leave all my good times at W.H.S., including my lack of study halls, to my sister Carol Ann.

I, Nancy George, leave my ability to get the first detention of the year in civics class to any unlucky person who gets it.

I, Marilyn Gossman, leave my long-used diet pills to Kay Marley.

I, Mike Harris, leave my "angelic" ways in choir to Austin Iwer.

I, Shirley Hawkins, leave my position as Rank Officer in the band to Eleanor Oney.

I, Pat Hazlett, leave my wedding gown to anyone who is small enough to wear it.

I, Earl Hefflinger, leave my nickname "Oil" to anyone who squeaks.

I, Floyd Herold, leave my ability to get along with all the teachers to Rosemary.

I, Jim Herrick, leave to Gary Huhker my ability to block high and get cleated in the mouth.

I, Roger Hyde, leave my 1936 Plymouth to any junk dealer who will have it.

I, Philip Jewett, leave to Jim Grimes the ability to stand in the stairways at noon with a certain girl without getting caught.

I, Barney Jones, leave my way with the women to anybody who needs such a talent.

I, Tom Jones, leave my ability to talk during civics class without getting a detention to Charlie West.

I, Karen Kepler, leave my ability to forget my gym clothes to Cindy Jones. (Good luck!)

I, John Kert, leave my late model car to Louis Eaton.

I, Bernice King, leave to Ardith Jewett the ability to sit in the superintendent's office at least one period each day of the school year.

I, Bob Klann, leave the holes in the ceiling of the first floor hall to anyone tall enough to make more of them.

I, Juanita Knapp, leave all the boys in Wellington, except Junior, of course, to Joan Burch.

I, Ken Kurtz, leave to Clair Storrow my ability to milk cows.

I, Bill Lampen, leave my ability to smash up Mr. Gove in basketball practice to my brother Bud. Hope he has fun!

I, Agnes Lasky, leave to my sister Betty my habit of always saying the wrong thing at the wrong time.

I, Kay Laughlin, have found what I want in Brighton, and I refuse to leave him to anyone.

I, Christine LeBeau, leave to Louanne Broud the ability to have a steady boy friend from a town other than Wellington.

I, Annabelle Lee, leave my good times at W.H.S. to anyone who wants them.

I, Todd Moehle, leave my ability to get excused absences to Kent Sheffield.

I, Edith Mull, leave my excuses for being so late on school nights to my sister Ellen, who needs them badly.

I, Lois Nance, leave my parking place by the school to anyone brave enough to take it.

I, Orville Nance, leave my job at Pipe Plugs to any boy wishing to work part-time after school.

I, Bob Norton, leave to Norm Richards my ability to fool around in study hall and never get caught.

I, Glenda Perkins, leave my overpowering charm (?) to my brother Gary, who really needs it, doesn't he, girls?

I, Maxine Pitts, leave my position of Society Editor of the "Hi-Times" to anyone who has the nerve to take it.

I, John Poiner, leave my ability to chew gum without being caught to Tom Babitt.

I, Kathleen Prentiss, leave to Mary Raab my short hair styles.

I, Leo Raab, leave my seat in last year's bookkeeping class to anyone who can pass the course.

I, Carol Riggs, leave my place in front of the seniors' mirror to Betty Weimer.

I, Arthur Rucker, leave my good looks to Tom Thompson.

I, Charlene Seeley, leave my frequent trips to Lenny's to Lois Gannett.

I, Rodney Sell, leave my ability to wreck a motorcycle and still be nuts enough to try it again to Pete Pitts.

I, Janet Sipes, leave my ability to get detentions for tardiness to anyone who likes to stay after school.

I, Tony Sprenger, leave my six years in marching band to anyone who wants to see all the football games free.

I, Jack Stampfli leave the wave in my hair to Chuck Graibus.

I, Bill Stegman, leave my "shot rod" to Kermit Grose.

I, Pat Storrow, leave my cool disposition to Ronnie Simonson.

I, Janet Swartz, leave my ability to go through school with so much trouble to Grace Sawver.

I, Beth Thornton, leave to my sister Sue my sympathy and to anyone who wants a lot of work, the position of Editor of this book.

I, Alice Trigg, leave my back seat in civics class to anyone who likes to talk and get away with it.

I, Jim Vickers, leave all the girls to Norm Richards.

I, Sheila Wagner, must leave my yellow sweater behind, since it can't be found anywhere.

I, Steve Westbrook, leave my seat in choir to any other famous Caruso.

I, Sue Westbrook, leave my job as choir accompanist to anybody who likes to practice.

I, John Wheatley, leave the school with no regrets.

I, Molly Wight, leave my ability to get up at 8:20 and still make it to homeroom on time to any junior who likes to sleep late.

I, John Wilkinson, leave my keys to W.H.S. and my place on the stage crew to my brother Tom.

I, Barbara Wright, leave my position on the varsity cheerleading squad to Ardith Jewett, who will do a great job.

I, Harold Wurtz, leave my front row seat in civics to any junior who wants it.

I, Betty Youngless, leave my many nicknames to my cousin, Bev Moses, and "Elvis" to Mrs. Gannett.

homecoming

The 1957-1958 Homecoming festivities were highlighted by the selection of a lovely senior girl, Miss Barbara Drake, as queen. Candidates for the honor were chosen by the football team. Voting by the student body determined that Miss Drake would reign supreme during the collision of the Wellington Dukes and the Margarett Polar Bears. Only the counter of the votes was to have known the results of the poll until Mr. Harris divulged the secret at the pre-game pep rally and bonfire.

He also presented the honored guest with the football to be used in the game the following night.

Prior to the game the queen was crowned by last year's queen, Barbara Tenney. Miss Drake expressed gratefulness for the honor and encouragement to the team. Her attendants were Joyce Benschoter, Charlene Seeley, and Carol Riggs.

VALEDICTORIAN

The time has come when the class of '58 must say farewell to our high school days. Some of us leave with sadness and regret; others leave with joy and eagerness. But no matter what our individual feelings, we all realize that our lives will never again be the same.

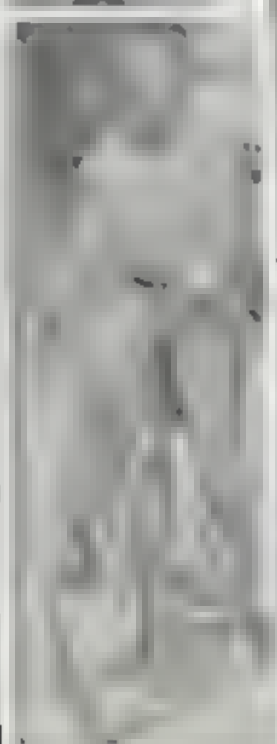

We are going out to homes, careers, and challenges of our own. No longer shall we have the guidance and protection that we have had during our school days. We are about to greet our own futures and become the guides and protectors of the next generation.

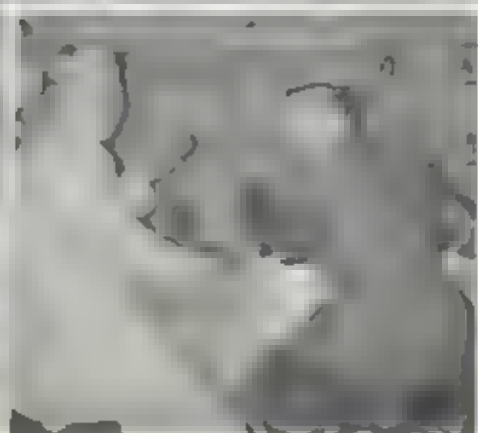

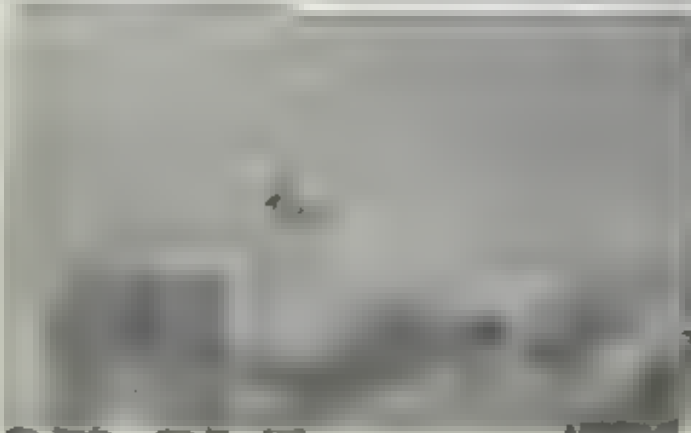

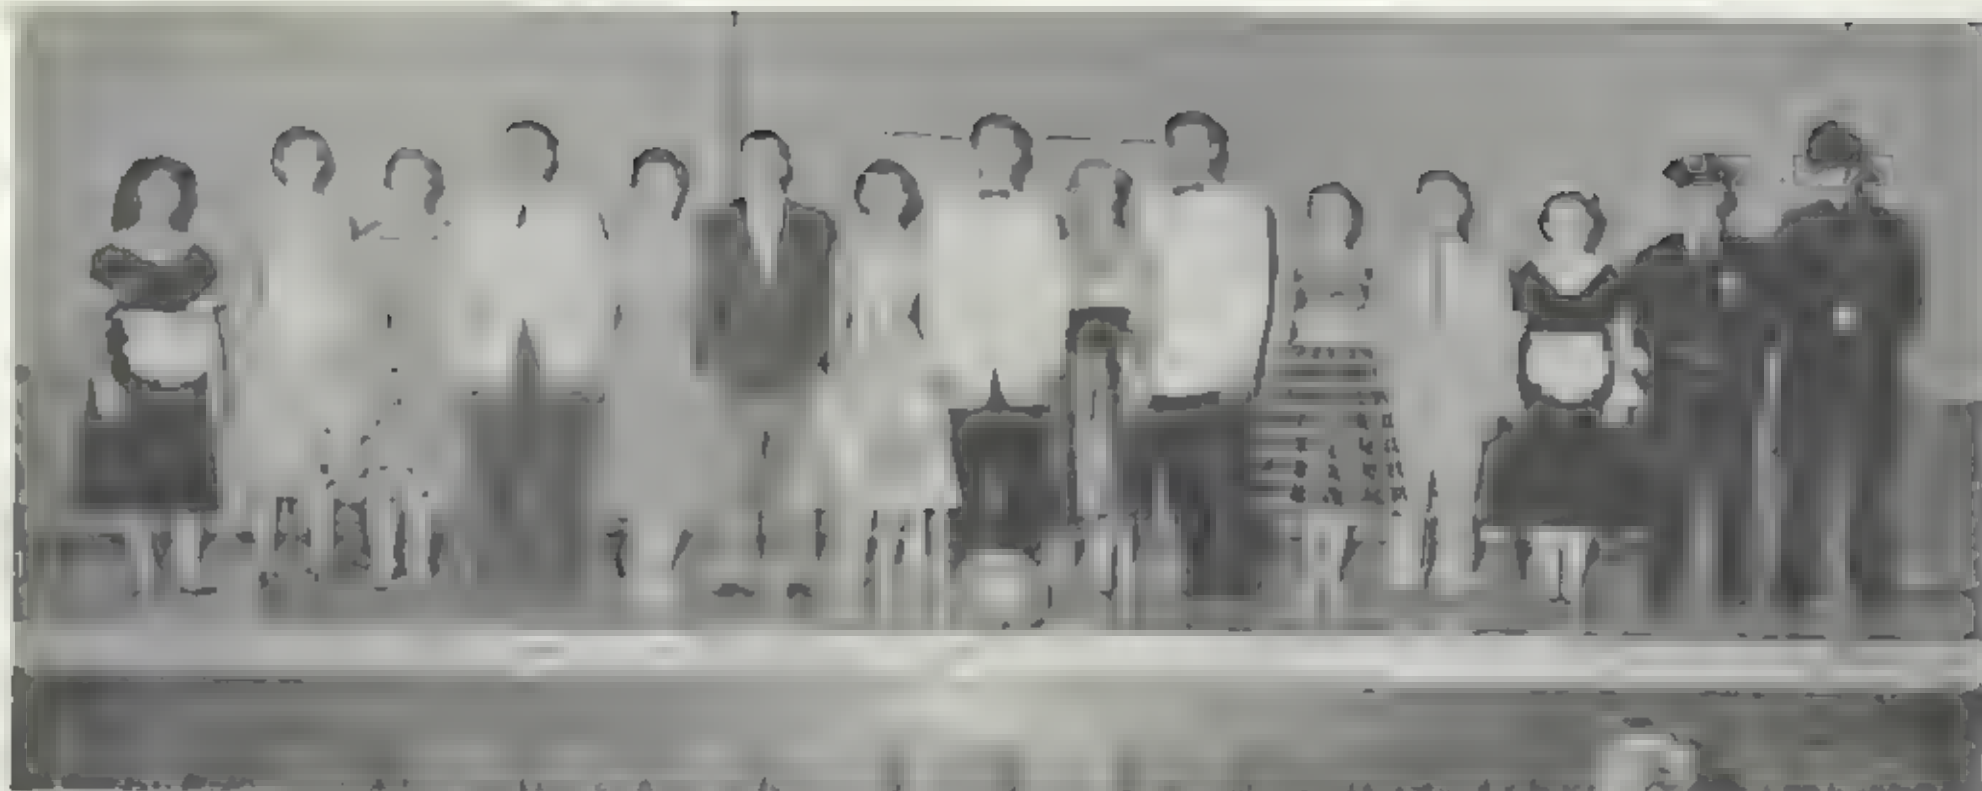

Now we are not just on the threshold of a new age; we are in it, and what it holds for us is uncertain. Through the past several years our families, school, church, and community have tried to instill in us those qualities that we shall find most helpful in facing this new life. They have all helped to teach us many things: lessons in reading, writing, and arithmetic; Respect, honesty, loyalty, responsibility, sportsmanship, love of country and fellow man, a desire for knowledge, and a desire for peace are a few of the characteristics that have been impressed upon us. These are the qualities which we shall most need no matter what the future may bring. In general, they have tried to teach us to be good, intelligent citizens.

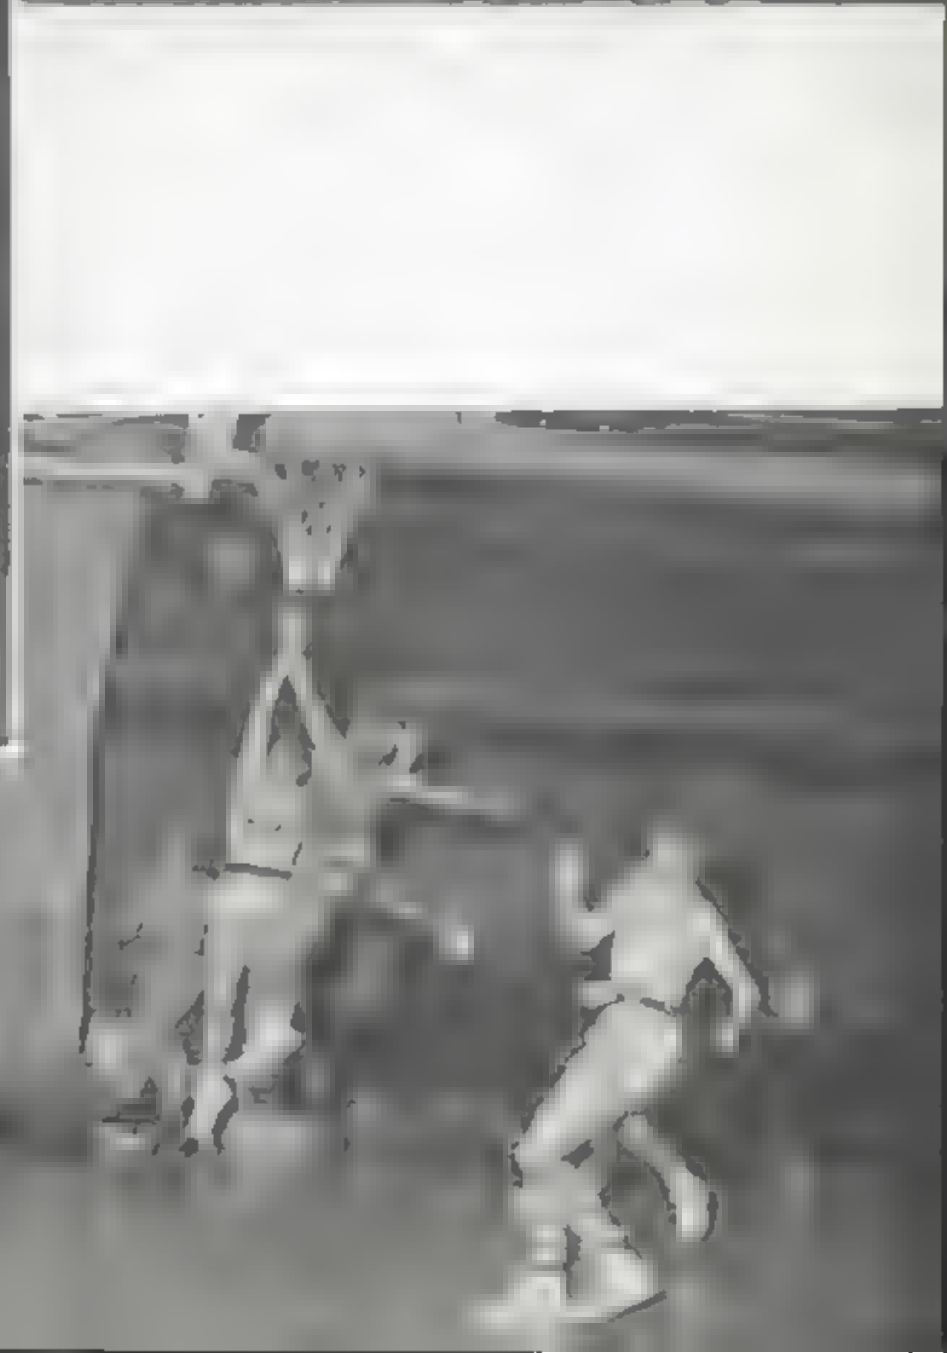

We hope, as we step forward to meet these new responsibilities and challenges that we shall be able to prove to our homes, our church, our school, and our community that their efforts have not been in vain. We hope, too, that we shall be able to uphold these qualities to future generations.
